The book, packed in 22 chapters, provides in-depth and detailed information on different aspects of urban development. Issues, such as education, health, power, transport, stray animals, tourism, water, greenery, pollution, waste and sanitation management, disaster management, adulteration, crimes, social life, civic infrastructure, encroachment, unauthorized construction and illegal colonies, which the people in Delhi have been confronting for long, have been covered under the book. As Delhi is the national capital and the mirror of the country, the author has attempted to focus on the development of it as a role model of the urban India, to be replicated by others in respect of issues that affect the day-to-day life of a common man, people of all age groups, sex, religion, region, poor and rich, students, public and private sectors, bureaucrats, businessmen, industrialists and politicians. The book will be of immense value to policymakers, programme planners, public and private sectors, NGOs, social workers, environmental workers, educationists, developmental practitioners and the Delhiites who dream to see Delhi as "a world-class city".

Delhi Police-Head Constable (Ministerial) Recruitment Exam Guide Testbook.com

The author believes that human mind is very fertile and capable of wildest imagination. There is no dearth of books with fictitious stories showing flight of human mind conceiving weird objects and incidents which never happened and may never happen. Time machine was conceived decades back. Rockets and satellites were invented by human mind much before they became reality. However, many incidents in real life are so strange and unique that they surpass the wildest human imagination and fiction. It is with a view to record one such subjective experience that the author has embarked upon this modest attempt at English prose. Master of Larceny is the true story of a perverted genius who joined the Indian Air Force sometime in 1965-66 and was arrested, tried by Court Martial, convicted of a series of thefts and incarcerated in 1970-71. All material facts stated in the book are true and authentic. However, some names have been changed to protect the identity of the person where required and minor details may be inaccurate due to lapse of time and memory. The author was intimately connected with the successful investigation of the entire case and prosecution of the culprits. He was commended by the Air Officer Commanding in Chief, Maintenance Command, IAF for tracking and running down the Master of Larceny and his gang. Therefore while some minor inaccuracies in matters of detail cannot be ruled out due to lapse of time, the veracity of all material facts is guaranteed. Although every effort been made to protect the identity of all persons involved in the incident, particularly those who came out in poor light, inquisitive minds and contemporaries may still be able to spot the characters with reference to the dates, places and appointments. The author therefore wishes to apologize if unwittingly the identity of any person is given away by unavoidable references.

This report focuses on the impact of the Government's proposed settlement for police forces from 2011-12 to 2014-15. It is expected that there will be significantly fewer police officers, police community support officers and police staff as a result of the savings being required of police forces over the next four years. The loss of posts will have an impact on the range of services that the police provide and the way in which they are provided. Police forces are being asked to prioritise the front line but there is confusion as what exactly this term means. The Home Office should work with the police service to produce an agreed definition of front line, middle office and back office police roles as soon as possible. The Government should continue taking urgent steps to reduce unnecessary bureaucracy. More co-ordinated procurement also offers scope for savings. The Home Office should clarify who will be responsible for driving better procurement when the National Policing Improvement Agency is phased out in spring 2012. The greatest savings are being required of police forces in 2012-13, when the transition from Police Authorities to Police and Crime Commissioners is scheduled to take place and when police forces nationwide will be under the additional pressure of policing the Olympics. The Home Office should acknowledge that there are risks involved in this transition and should set out how it should be managed. Police forces need a funding system that offers long-term predictability in order to be able to plan more effectively, especially at a time of reduced income.

This book is an outcome of sheer hard work of successful candidates. Previously, I had given thought to publish the success stories last year too but it could not materialize. Subsequently, when I came in contact with successful candidates, I realized that some had so unique journeys that I could not resist myself to give shape to the idea which was in mind since long. Again, the question arose to whom should I approach since I had known only limited number of successful candidates. In this book you will find a unique success pattern of each successful Officer. Some of them come from backward areas, some have average educational qualification, so that you may realize that successful candidates not born with a silver spoon. Some of them were already in job, it is interesting to see how they could sale through their arduous journey and made it to the destination.

The Committees report examines the proposed restructuring of the four police forces in Wales, in light of the recommendations of the HMIC review ("Closing the gap: a review of the fitness for purpose of the current structure of policing in England and Wales" available at http://www.inspectorates.homeoffice.gov.uk/hmic/inspect_reports1/thematic-inspections/closinggap05.pdf) published in September 2005. Issues discussed include: the timetable for restructuring and provision for consultation; strategic policing needs in Wales; funding aspects and the impact on neighbourhood policing; and governance issues. The reports findings include: criticism that the tight timescale established for the restructuring process limited the scope for debate within police forces and police authorities, and for public consultation; and concern that the Governments approach to police restructuring across England and Wales reflects a failure to take sufficient account of the unique political, geographic and cultural characteristics of Wales.

“A career can be like a snake and ladder journey, full of ups and downs, but remember, your career is a journey, not a destination.” Your career does not start and end when you get a job. You start your career when you begin doing activities at school, playing sports on weekends, or working at your part-time or volunteer job. There are skills that you can develop and steps you can take each time you are faced with your next career transition. Your career will be a rich and rewarding experience that will require you to make many critical decisions throughout your life. So why won't you just leave school and go straight into a job that you'll have for life? Lots of reasons! You might find out you don't suit a job, you might want to earn more money, you may be offered the chance to do something more challenging, or your passion is something else. That's when you need to work through your career decision-making process and review the career you think is the best for you. The Right Hand to Eat helps you choose your career—it doesn't choose you!
