 and important source of Hindu law is Vedas.
 According to tradition the Vedas also called Shruti.
 Shruti means what is heard by the Sages (Rishis). The Vedas are the fountain-head of Hindu religion and law.
 Veda means knowledge (from the root vid = to know). There are four Vedas. Rig Veda, Yajur

Law is credited to be the most ancient law system which is approximately 6000 years old. The sources of Hindu Law can be kept under two headings:- Ancient or original sources: According to Manu there are four sources of Hindu Law as per following details, in addition to these four there was also that what is agreeable to one's conscience such as Shrutis, Smritis, Digest and Commentaries, Custom and Usages.

SOURCES OF HINDU LAW - Legal Bites

Hindu Law is considered to be divine law as it is strongly believed that the sages had attained some spiritual dominion and they could communicate directly with God from whom we get the divine law. But this is only an assumption and no concrete proof for the same is shown that the sages could communicate with God (whose very existence is challenged by atheists).
