Children and adolescents with chronic health conditions deal with a variety of unique challenges and stressors physically, emotionally, and socially. Camps that are specifically designed for these children can provide many protective factors in order to buffer the risks often accompanied with their illnesses. Although camps have many benefits, they can be stressful and often present a challenge for many children who struggle with homesickness. Research reveals the importance of preparing children for stressful experiences. By focusing attention on easing parental and child anxiety through preparation, camps can optimize protective factors and promote positive outcomes. This paper will review literature on four main topics: (a) challenges facing children with chronic illness; (b) benefits of camp for these children; (c) effectiveness of preparation for stressful experiences; and (d) predictors and prevention of homesickness. Lastly, a resource guide made specifically for Victory Junction, a camp for children with chronic illnesses, is introduced. Contains information on resources and publications in the general field of alternative medicine and thirty-two specific modalities. Completely revised and updated, the fourth edition of Practicum and Internship carries on the tradition of the previous editions as a popular and highly useful textbook and resource guide. It continues to be a comprehensive resource for students and their supervisors throughout the counseling and psychotherapy process, providing thorough coverage of both the theoretical and practical aspects of the practicum and internship process. This text guides students through the important pre-professional training experiences, from the selection of an appropriate practicum site to the final evaluation of the internship. Organizing the content into four sections for clarity and ease of use, the authors discuss all the relevant information regarding the practicum experience, preparation for the internship, the internship experience and evaluation, and important ethical and legal considerations. New in this edition are a listing and description of the various counseling theories and techniques; a section on crisis intervention and response; detailed guidelines for school mental health consultation; and forms for evaluating performance, cognitive, and consulting skills. Forms are provided at the end of the book for the student's use in site selection, assessment, client treatment, and performance feedback and evaluation. These forms are also included in electronic format on an accompanying CD to allow students to modify and reuse them. After observing the devastation of hurricanes Katrina and Rita, the tsunami in Indonesia and Malaysia, catastrophic floods worldwide, and earthquakes in diverse places, Dian and Mary acquired a deep desire to share their knowledge and information with everyone who wants it. Make the Psychiatric-Mental Health Nurse Practitioner Review and Resource Manual a key resource in your certification preparation. Book jacket. In addition to the worked-out solutions to odd-numbered exercises from the text, this resource guide contains "selected hints" that support the reader, including lists of skills that will help prepare for the chapter exams. The purpose of this resource guide is to identify and describe teaching, training, and staff development materials that meet three basic criteria: they are good, they are readily available, and they are inexpensive. These resources may assist educators, trainers, supervisors, and other personnel preparation decisionmakers in designing quality preservice and inservice experiences. The guide is divided into two sections: materials on instructional content and materials on the instructional process. The instructional content section provides annotated listings of materials with which to enrich preservice and inservice personnel preparation in 14 key early childhood/early intervention content areas. These include: assistive technology, diversity, early care and development, evaluation/assessment, family-professional collaboration, Individualized Family Service Plans/Individualized Education Programs, inclusion, interagency collaboration, legislation, service coordination, specific populations, state planning and resource development, teams, and transitions. The instructional process section describes resources to enrich the design of quality personnel preparation efforts including family participation materials, and personnel preparation and development materials. Each section includes primary and supplemental resources and includes information on the content of the materials, date, medium, and cost. Appendices include a list of sources for the materials, an author index, and a title index. This is the first book of two in the series. This first book is specifically designed for support personnel such as dispatchers, scene safety supervisors, compliance directors, and office managers and lays the foundation. Additionally, this guide may be used a study guide to prepare for the TRSCP® Entry Level certification exam available on www.towcert.com. Background For towing and recovery professionals to effectively do their jobs, they rely on other industry professionals serving in supportive roles who are not themselves tow operators. While many don't work directly on the roadways, support personnel such as dispatchers, scene safety supervisors, compliance directors, and office managers are an integral part of the towing and recovery team. The role of support personnel is critical to effective incident management. Many of these individuals respond to incident sites or work behind the scenes to dispatch equipment and resources that are necessary to facilitate the clearance. They also handle communication, documentation, and track the incident for safety compliance thereby contributing to quick clearance needs. While the TRSCP® was developed specifically for the towing and recovery industry, the program is open to all qualified candidates in other associated fields that meet the requirements. If you are an agency dispatcher in law enforcement, 911, TIM, Department of Transportation (DOT), etc. we hope this program will enhance your understanding of the equipment, resources, and logistics necessary for an efficient towing and recovery response and, thereby, increase interdisciplinary communication. If you are a non-agency party that may be present at an incident scene (such as Public Information Officers (PIO), media, fleet safety directors, and insurance adjusters), we hope this will expand your knowledge base of incident management and quick clearance. These materials are intended for educational purposes only. TRAA is publishing this guide as a resource for those working in the towing and recovery industry who are not themselves towing operators. In this advanced level, we will expand on the topics previously discussed in the Resource Guide for Support Professionals (Book 1) and build on that knowledge base to introduce new topics specific to higher level support staff such as company safety managers, compliance directors, non-operator company owners, etc. Additionally, this guide may be used a study guide to prepare for the TRSCP(R) Advanced Level certification exam available on www.towcert.com. Here Confirmation Candidates are taught ABOUT the sacrament even as they walk through its ritual aspects. The liturgical rite becomes the focal point for helping them understand what it means to be a confirmed member of the Catholic Church. These eight sessions therefore explore the phrases used in the dialogue between the bishop and the candidate so that the liturgy itself is at the heart of the lessons. Topics include: The Role of the Bishop, The Request to be Confirmed, Making Decisions, The Anointing with Oil, The Holy Spirit, What We Believe, Pentecost, and Being Sent Forth.
