 Ilmu-ilmu ekonomi dapat kita analisis dengan menggunakan pendekatan kuantitatif dan kualitatif. Pada saat ini penelitianpenelitian dengan penggunaan pendekatan kuantitatif sudah semakin berkembang, dimana hubungan-hubungan variabel ekonomi yang dahulunya hanya dijelaskan secara kualitatif, sekarang dapat dibuat dalam bentuk matematis dengan pendekatan kuantitatif. Hubungan matematis ini dapat dianalisis dengan penggunaan alat-alat analisis statistik dengan pengujian-pengujiannya, sehingga dalam hal ini ekonometrika sangat berperan(Firdaus, 2011). Ekonometrika adalah suatu ilmu yang membahas masalah pengukuran tentang hubungan dalam ekonomi. Dengan demikian, Ekonometrika adalah ilmu yang mencakup teori ekonomi, matematika, dan statistika dalam satu kesatuan sistem yang bulat, menjadi suatu ilmu yang berdiri sendiri dan beda dengan ilmu ekonomi; matematika; maupun statistika. Ekonometrika digunakan sebagai alat analisis ekonomi yang bertujuan sebagai menguji kebenaran teorama-teorama teori ekonomi yang berupa hubunganantarvariabel ekonomi dengan data empirik.

A comprehensive, up-to-date look at modern Russian higher education. By the mid-eighteenth century, when the first university appeared in Russia, many European nations could boast of long and glorious university traditions. But Russia, with its poorly developed system of elementary and secondary education, lagged behind other European countries and seemed destined for a long spell of second-tier performance. Yet by the mid-twentieth century, the fully reformed system of Soviet higher education was perceived as an unexpected success, one that transformed the country into a major scientific power throughout the Cold War. Today, the international community is keeping close tabs on the fast development of world-class higher education in Russia, specifically its large-scale changes and reforms. Higher Education in Russia is the first comprehensive, up-to-date overview and analysis of modern Russian higher education. Aimed at a large international audience, it describes the current realities of higher education in Russia, as well as the main principles, logic, and relevant historical and cultural factors. Outlining the development of the higher education system in tsarist Russia throughout the nineteenth century, Yaroslav Kuzminov and Maria Yudkevich describe the development of its mass-scale higher education system from the end of the Second World War to the collapse of the Soviet Union and beyond. They also discuss the principal elements of today's Russian higher education system while exploring the system's governance model and the logic of its resource allocation. They touch on university selection, the structure of the country's academic profession, the organization of research, and the major excellence programs of leading universities. Illustrating the idea that the development of the higher education system is very much linked with the European experience, the authors argue that Russian higher education was often the domain of successful (and not so successful) education experiments and innovations. Higher Education in Russia is a must-read for scholars of higher education and Russian history alike.

The book explores the uneven spatial distribution of territory resources and its implication for the sustainable development of regions and cities. The authors analyze the features of the localization of assets, paying attention to both the manifested factors and the conditions that determine the specificity of the current spatial organization. On the basis of multivariate analysis, gravity models, clustering method, as well as the evaluation of concentration parameters, the authors propose various approaches to systematize territorial units, paying special attention to the peculiarities of their economic structure, resource diffusion barriers, and quality of life parameters. The obtained results indicate the need for a differentiated approach in the choice of guidelines for the transformation of the socio-economic space, allowing the researchers to propose various transformation models for differing regions. Thus, this book presents spatial organization models for different regional economies, highlighting various approaches to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals and reducing inequality. The book seeks to balance the benefits of polarized development with the need to avoid significant interregional disparities. At the same time, the book offers various solutions for differentiating territories, distinguishing different spatial elements, and determining the most appropriate transformation options. The results obtained may be of interest to scholars in regional and spatial science as well as to professionals in the field of territorial development management.
