National Union Catalog Rowman & Littlefield
 Lange Zeit wurde Literatur von Roma gar nicht oder wenn nach stereotypen Bewertungsmustern betrachtet. Der Band setzt es sich zum Ziel, die Literaturen der Roma erstmals einer genauen ästhetischen Betrachtung zu unterziehen und zu fragen, welche gemeinsamen Tendenzen beobachtet werden können. Viele Werke von Roma weisen einen performativen und/ oder hybriden Charakter auf. Die Präferenz für performative Erzählformen kann auf die lang gepflegten Traditionen der oralen Literatur (Legenden, Märchen, Magie) sowie des oral history-building (orale Weitergabe des kollektiven Gedächtnisses, von Gründungs-Herkunftsmythen sowie von Lebenserfahrungen zu Erhalt und Stärkung der Gruppenidentität) zurückgeführt werden. Musik und Tanz, identitätskonstituierende Elemente der Roma-Kulturen, deren performativer Charakter sich in diversen Formen von Intermedialität und Medienkombination niederschlägt, spielen fast durchgängig eine bedeutsame Rolle. Gleichzeitig spiegelt sich hierin auch der Trend, schriftliche Literatur neu (er)schaffen zu wollen. Auffällig dabei ist die Tendenz künstlerisch-ästhetische Traditionen der oralen Roma-Literatur mit Elementen der schriftlichen Mehrheitsliteratur zu verschmelzen. Wie bei allen sich allmählich etablierenden kleinen Literaturen lassen sich in ästhetischer Hinsicht unterschiedliche Phasen des literarischen Selbstausdrucks beobachten, die freilich als dynamisch und ineinander verwoben zu betrachten sind. Von autobiographischen und autofiktionalen Texten, zu realistischen oder magisch-realistischen Texten bis zur modernen Ästhetik kleiner Literaturen, ausdrücklicher Abgrenzungsästhetik sowie der Exploration neuer Formen lässt sich hier der Bogen spannen.  Mit der Gattung Roman entsteht die moderne Literaturkritik. Beidem, der neuen inflatorischen Gattung und der neuen interpretatorischen Technik des Lesens, hat sich die Romantik verschrieben. Die Arbeit geht davon aus, dass die einzige Realität, die der Roman präsentiert, die Rede und die Redenden sind. Indem die Romantik diesen Romandiskurs universalisiert und transzendentalisiert, stößt sie in das Territorium der reinen Grammatik des Wissens, der philosophischen Systeme als Redestrategie der reinen Wissenschaft vor. Der Roman trägt sich zweifach als Symptom ein: Einmal als Name einer endlosen Schrift, die nicht aufhört, und das Gesetz der systematischen Konstruktion des Wissens infrage stellt, zum zweiten als Symptom eines Begehrens, das sich im und als Sprechen (des Anderen) artikuliert.

 "The Idea of the Forest" is a collection of essays originally delivered at the University of Oregon during an interdisciplinary conference on the forest and its role in the political cultures of both Germany and North America. Contributions examine the forest as a site in the imagination as well as the focal point of current political, economic and ecological disputes.

 Los 23 ensayos que conforman La verdad del mundo técnico —escritos entre 1978 y 2010— buscan trazar el desarrollo del pensamiento de Friedrich Kittler y muestran los fuertes lazos que median entre las tecnologías de la comunicación y la sociabilidad. Su innovadora y ecléctica investigación en torno a los medios de comunicación como objetos de reflexión filosófica, le permiten apreciar aspectos nodales y polémicos de la modernidad. La importancia de la guerra para la consolidación de los medios de comunicación modernos, ensayos musicales sobre Pink Floyd y aventuras interpretaciones del mundo griego clásico son un ejemplo de la basta investigación presente en esta obra.

 This is a highly original book about the connections between historical moment, social structure, technology, communication systems, and what is said and thought using these systems - notably literature. The author focuses on the differences between 'discourse networks' in 1800 and in 1900, in the process developing a new analysis of the shift from romanticism to modernism. The work might be classified as a German equivalent to the New Historicism that is currently of great interest among American literary scholars, both in the intellectual influences to which Kittler responds and in his concern to ground literature in the most concrete details of historical reality. The artful structure of the book begins with Goethe's Faust and ends with Vale;ry's Faust. In the 1800 section, the author discusses how language was learned, the emergence of the modern university, the associated beginning of the interpretation of contemporary literature, and the canonization of literature. Among the writers and works Kittler analyzes in addition to Goethe's Faust are Schlegel, Hegel, E. T. A. Hoffman's 'The Golden Pot', and Goethe's Tasso. The 1900 section argues that the new discourse network in which literature is situated in the modern period is characterized by new technological media - film, the photograph, and the typewritten page - and the crisis that these caused for literary production. Along the way, the author discusses the work of Nietzsche, Gertrude Stein, Mallarmé, Bram Stoker, the Surrealists, Rilke, Kafka, and Freud, among others.

 Jazz can be uplifting, stimulating, sensual, and spiritual. Yet when writers turn to this form of music, they almost always imagine it in terms of loneliness. In Blue Notes: Jazz, Literature, and Loneliness, Sam V. H. Reese investigates literary representations of jazz and the cultural narratives often associated with it, noting how they have, in turn, shaped readers' judgments and assumptions about the music. This illuminating critical study contemplates the relationship between jazz and literature from a perspective that musicians themselves regularly call upon to characterize their performances: that of the conversation. Reese traces the tradition of literary appropriations of jazz, both as subject matter and as aesthetic structure, in order to show how writers turn to this genre of music as an avenue for exploring aspects of human loneliness. In turn, jazz musicians have often looked to literature—sometimes obliquely, sometimes centrally—for inspiration. Reese devotes particular attention to how several revolutionary jazz artists used the written word as a way to express, in concrete terms, something their music could only allude to or affectively evoke. By analyzing these exchanges between music and literature, Blue Notes refines and expands the cultural meaning of being alone, stressing how loneliness can create beauty, empathy, and understanding. Reese analyzes a body of prose writings that includes Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man and midcentury short fiction by James Baldwin, Julio Cortázar, Langston Hughes, and Eudora Welty. Alongside this vibrant tradition of jazz literature, Reese considers the autobiographies of Duke Ellington and Charles Mingus, as well as works by a range of contemporary writers including Geoff Dyer, Toni Morrison, Haruki Murakami, and Zadie Smith. Throughout, Blue Notes offers original perspectives on the disparate ways in which writers acknowledge the expansive side of loneliness, reimagining solitude through narratives of connected isolation.

Die Sprachphilosophie Jacques Lacans steht bei den «poststrukturalistischen» Vertretern der psychoanalytischen Textinterpretation in dem Ansehen, die hermeneutischen Probleme der freudianischen Tradition lösen zu können. Sie gegen diesen ihr fremden Anspruch, - Lacan gegen seine Anhänger zu verteidigen, ist das Ziel des vorliegenden Forschungsberichts. Auf der Basis einer kritischen Rekonstruktion der Lacanschen Metapsychologie unternimmt er es zu umgrenzen, was psychoanalytische Textbetrachtung eruieren und wonach sie sinnvoll fragen kann. Als Alternative zur ungeschichtlichen Pathologie der Psychoanalyse wird das Programm einer «Geschichte des Begehrens» entworfen.

Pianist George Shearing is that rare thing, a European jazz musician who became a household name in the US, as a result of the "Shearing sound"—the recordings of his historic late 1940s quintet. Together with his unique "locked hands" approach to playing the piano, Shearing's quintet with guitar and vibraphone in close harmony to his own playing revolutionized small group jazz, and ensured that after seven years as Melody Maker's top British pianist, he achieved even greater success in America. His compositions have been recorded by everyone from Sarah Vaughan to Miles Davis, and his best known pieces include "Lullaby of Birdland", "She" and "Conception". His story is all the more remarkable because Shearing was born blind. His candid reminiscences include a behind the scenes experience of New York's 52nd Street in its heyday, as well as memories of a vast roll-call of professional colleagues that includes all the great names in jazz.

This book examines how one aspect of the social and technological situation of literature—namely, the postal system—determined how literature was produced and what was produced within literature. Language itself has the structure of a relay, where what is transmitted depends on a prior withholding. The social arrangements and technologies for achieving this transmission thus have had a particularly powerful impact on the imagination of literature as a medium. The book has three parts. The first part reconstructs the postal conditions of classic and Romantic literature: the invention of postage in the seventeenth century, which transformed the postal system into a service meant to be used by the population (instead of by the prince alone); the sexualization of letter writing, which was introduced in the middle of the eighteenth century and changed the reading of a letter into an interpretation of intimate confessions of the soul; and Goethe's turning of this new ontology of the letter into a logistics of literature whereby literary authorship was constructed by means of postal logistics, with the precision of engineering. The second part analyzes nineteenth-century postal innovations that facilitated communication through letters and examines how literary works were able to live off such communication. These innovations included the reform of the post office; the invention of the postage stamp; the Universal Postal Union, which subjected letter writing to an economy of materials and uniform standards; and the telegraph and the telephone, which surpassed literature in terms of speed, economy, and analog-signal processing. In the third part, on the basis of a close reading of Franz Kafka's letters to his typist-fiancée, the author demonstrates how postal logistics of love and authorship have worked in the era of modern postal systems and technical media. Kafka's correspondence is deciphered as a "war of nerves" waged by means of all available techniques and conditions of transmission.
