But then I learned that he had laughed at my proud name, Montresor, the name of an old and honored family. I promised myself that I would make him pay for this — that I would have revenge. You must not suppose, however, that I spoke of this to anyone. The Cask of Amontillado - State "The Cask" presents a bizarre psychological study of two creepy men. Both men are on a quest. Fortunato wants the Amontillado, and Montresor wants Fortunato to feel his revenge. And where there is revenge, there is usually tragedy - meaning somebody dies in the end. The Cask of Amontillado Analysis The Cask of Amontillado Summary. The story is told in first person, so we don't explicitly learn the narrator's name until near the end. Until then, we'll call him "the narrator." Here we go. The narrator begins by telling us that Fortunato has hurt him. Even worse, Fortunato has insulted him. The narrator must get revenge. He meets Fortunato, who is all dressed up in jester clothes for a carnival celebration — and is already very drunk. The Cask of Amontillado Summary Upon a first reading of "The Cask of Amontillado," we might be tempted to view Montresor simply as an unreasonable, cold-blooded murderer. He presents us with only a vague understanding of his motivations, and his pretense of good will and careful manipulation of Fortunato indicates the care with which he has planned Fortunato's death. Poe's Short Stories The Cask of Amontillado Summary and ...
