Information and communication technologies are networked. Exchanging information between two points in a network requires both the definition of what kind of information is to be exchanged (standardization) and the definition of rules and procedures of how this information is produced, circulated, and received (regulation). As such, processes of standardization (the negotiation and definition of technical standards) and regimes of regulation (their implementation and control by a legally and/or politically recognized institution) are at the heart of techno-political diplomacy, because they involve a multitude of actors (technical, economic, and political) and arenas (platforms of negotiation) on national, international, and transnational levels. As the term techno-diplomacy suggests, these processes are characterized by strategic actions, and tactical maneuvers among all actors involved and generally require a high degree of both technical knowledge and diplomatic skills by the negotiating parties. This book aims at studying the role of one specific actor in the field of standardization and regulation of information and communication technologies, the International Telecommunication Union from its origins in the mid-19th century to nowadays. In this technodiplomatic game, ITU has been indeed an actor and had a key-role in different realms such as regulations of tariffs, technological standardization and homogeneity, establishment of shared norms, promotion and support of projects and studies for example in developing countries.

The national borders contain one of the most fertile swathes of land on the continent. All this makes for a food culture as fascinatingly distinct as it is startlingly delicious. Chef Yohanis takes the reader on a journey through all the essential dishes of his native country, along the way telling wondrous stories. There are recipes for Doro Wat, chicken slowly stewed with berbere spice; Yeassa Alichia, curried fish stew; and Siga Tibs, flashfried beef cubes. The cuisine also boasts a wealth of vegetarian dishes. Among these are Gomen, minced collard greens with ginger and garlic; Azifa, green lentil salad; and Key Shir, marinated beet and potato salad. Then the book explains the intricacies and variations of Injera, the foundational sourdough flatbread made from the teff grain (which is gluten free and more nutritious than wheat). Complete with photography of the country's stunning landscapes and vibrant artisans, this volume demonstrates why Ethiopian food should be considered as one of the world's greatest, most singular and most enchanting cuisines.

Dans le contexte mondial de l'« Éducation pour tous », le continent africain doit relever plusieurs défis, parmi lesquels celui d'améliorer l'accès à l'école de tous les enfants en âge d'être scolarisés, tout en leur garantissant un enseignement de qualité. L'Initiative ELAN-Afrique, mise en œuvre par l'Organisation internationale de la Francophonie en partenariat avec l'Agence universitaire de la Francophonie, l'Agence française de développement et le ministère français des Affaires étrangères et du Développement international, accompagne les pays qui le souhaitent sur la voie d'une articulation entre les langues des élèves (langues premières, langues africaines) et la langue française qui, cinquante ans après les indépendances, demeure très majoritairement la langue de l'école africaine francophone. Les contributions réunies dans cet ouvrage sont des actes de colloque issus d'une manifestation scientifique internationale qui a rassemblé à l'université Paul-Valéry Montpellier une cinquantaine de contributeurs autour de ces questions. Elles sont organisées autour de sept thématiques pour une meilleure lisibilité : le lecteur pourra ainsi aborder la question des « transferts » (de compétences linguistiques ou cognitives), les chantiers de la formation des enseignants et des écritures curriculaires, se documenter sur les ressources pour l'enseignement multilingue et sur les pratiques pédagogiques effectives, mais aussi compléter ses connaissances à travers les éclairages émanant d'autres contextes éducatifs (Amérique latine, Caraïbe, Afrique australe, Maghreb, Liban). Un ensemble d'informations sur l'utilisation conjointe des langues africaines et du français pour la scolarisation en Afrique, qui intéressera aussi bien les étudiants, les chercheurs, les enseignants que les cadres éducatifs, les experts et les organismes bailleurs de fonds impliqués dans le processus complexe d'introduction d'approches bi-plurilingues à l'école.

Aux yeux du grand public, le refinancement d'entreprises en difficulté est avant tout un moyen efficace de faire fortune pour les investisseurs. Cette activité, connue également sous le nom de capital-retournement, est pourtant le domaine d'exercice exclusif de hauts techniciens de la finance et du droit exploitant le droit de l'ingénierie financière. Cet ouvrage démystifie le capital-retournement tout en voulant améliorer sa pratique. Pour cela, l'aspect juridique de la levée des fonds fait l'objet d'une profonde analyse. À partir de celle-ci et du droit étranger, un nouveau type de fonds est élaboré : la Société de Libre Partenariat Simplifiée (SLPS). Il s'agit d'un limited partnership capable de rivaliser avec ses concurrents anglo-saxons et luxembourgeois. De nouveaux mécanismes financiers sont proposés tels que le gage croisé ou encore le cramdown. Le mécanisme de cotation de la Banque de France est repensé. Le CIRI s'y voit confier un rôle actif. Le refinancement participatif d'entreprises en difficulté est également au coeur de la réflexion. Enfin, un nouveau régime fiscal incitatif est proposé.

Maurice Potron (1872-1942), a French Jesuit mathematician, constructed and analyzed a highly original, but virtually unknown economic model. This book presents translated versions of all his economic writings, preceded by a long introduction which sketches his life and environment based on extensive archival research and family documents. Potron had no education in economics and almost no contact with the economists of his time. His primary source of inspiration was the social doctrine of the Church, which had been updated at the end of the nineteenth century. Faced with the 'economic evils' of his time, he reacted by utilizing his talents as a mathematician and an engineer to invent and formalize a general disaggregated model in which production, employment, prices and wages are the main unknowns. He introduced four basic principles or normative conditions ('sufficient production', the 'right to rest', 'justice in exchange', and the 'right to live') to define satisfactory regimes of production and labour on the one hand, and of prices and wages on the other. He studied the conditions for the existence of these regimes, both on the quantity side and the value side, and he explored the way to implement them. This book makes it clear that Potron was the first author to develop a full input-output model, to use the Perron-Frobenius theorem in economics, to state a duality result, and to formulate the Hawkins-Simon condition. These are all techniques which now belong to the standard toolkit of economists. This book will be of interest to Economics postgraduate students and researchers, and will be essential reading for courses dealing with the history of mathematical economics in general, and linear production theory in particular.

This up-to-date resource on restorative justice theory and practice is the literature's most comprehensive and authoritative review of original research in new and contested areas. Bringing together contributors from across a range of jurisdictions, disciplines and legal traditions, this edited collection provides a concise, but critical review of existing theory and practice in restorative justice. Authors identify key developments, theoretical arguments and new empirical evidence, evaluating their merits and demerits, before turning the reader's attention to further concerns informing and improving the future of restorative justice. Divided into four parts, the Handbook includes papers written by leading scholars on new theory, empirical evidence of implementation, critiques and the future of restorative justice. This companion is essential reading for scholars of restorative justice, criminology, social theory, psychology, law, human rights and criminal justice, as well as researchers, policymakers, practitioners and campaigners from around the world.

Double Lives: Film Composers in the Concert Hall is a collection of fifteen essays dealing with 'iconic' film composers who, perhaps to the surprise of many fans of film music, nevertheless maintained lifelong careers as composers for the concert hall. Featured composers include Erich Wolfgang Korngold, Franz Waxman, Miklós Rózsa, Bernard Herrmann, Nino Rota, Leonard Rosenman, and Ennio Morricone. Progressing in chronological order, the chapters offer accounts of the various composers' concert-hall careers and descriptions of their concert-hall styles. Each chapter compares the composer's music for films with his or her music for the concert hall, and speculates as to how music in one arena might have affected music in the other. For each composer discussed in the book, complete filmographies and complete works lists are included as appendices. Double Lives: Film Composers in the Concert Hall is accessible for scholars, researchers, and general readers with an interest in film music and concert music.

In recent years, there has been increased debate about the incorporation of pedagogy into art and curatorial practice-about what has been termed the 'educational turn'. In this companion volume to the critically acclaimed Curating Subjects, artists, curators, critics and academics respond to this widely recognised sense of art's paradigmatic re-orientation towards the educational. Consisting primarily of newly commissioned texts, from interviews and position statements to performative texts and dialogues, Curating and the Educational Turn also includes a small number of previously published writings that have proved pivotal in the debate so far This anthology presents an essential enquiry for anyone interested in the cultural politics of production at the intersections of art teaching and learning Curating and the Educational Turn is indispensable reading for anyone interested in curating, art practice and pedagogy as creative, engaged and potentially transformative activities. This timely and important collection provides a forum for what has been described as the 'educational turn' in curating and its more broad-based manifestations in art, education and culture.

CHRISTOPHE DUPONT (1922-2010), after a career in international negotiations as an economist at the International Monetary Fund and then the European Investment Bank, was active in the conflict and negotiation field as a professor, consultant and researcher. He contributed to the establishment of negotiation research in France and beyond, writing extensively on negotiation, and inspiring a generation of conflict management scholars in the francophone world. A practitioner turned scholar, Dupont successfully bridged theory and practice, and can be considered as one of the thought leaders of our field. Many of his contributions are presented in this volume along with chapters from several well-known colleagues influenced by his work. This book inaugurates a new mini-series titled Careers in Negotiation and Conflict Management Research. It aims to honor outstanding scholars who have opened original paths in uncharted areas, as well as to shed new light on their legacy thanks to the contributions of colleagues. "This is a remarkable initiative concerning a prominent figure in negotiation research, Christophe Dupont. I was privileged to be a close colleague for more than three decades. His exceptional work on synthesis, classification, and framework development helped our academic community to organize the considerable amount of research published during the past few decades. An economist who ventured well beyond that discipline, his broad vision brought him into contact with scholars from sociology, psychology, and political science. These collaborations contributed in important ways to our understanding of the complex world that must be navigated by negotiators. This book, dedicated to his contributions to negotiation scholarship, is an excellent start for a ground-breaking series on thought leaders."
